ABOUT MIHIR

Mihir has been in software development for 15 years. He started out working with Oracle technologies and cut his teeth with Java technologies. Mihir built many products for businesses in the hospitality industry, healthcare, and public government. He started working in Agile development in 2007 and loves how it aligns perfectly with his personality and lifestyle. His current role allows him to make an impact at an enterprise level in order to influence best practices and drive awareness for our product lines.
