ABOUT CHRIS

Chris has worked with Disney for over 21 years within resort operations. After years working in the resort operations area, Chris then transitioned to the technology area in 2010, as an analyst. From there, Chris has worked his way to becoming a manager where he oversees development teams. While performing this job, the organization recently transitioned from a waterfall organization to a scrum organization. Prior to overseeing the development teams, Chris used to focus his attention to managing the guest service and housekeeping areas.
